Summary of offer	Export/Joint Ventures: Food Technology for Espresso Machines

Description of Offer

An Israeli food technology company provides a patented method of design for heating high voltage water systems in beverage appliances, creating a smart espresso machine.

The innovative green technology heats the water through a micro-boiler system using a halogen bulb. This method of heating has many benefits including no lime scale effects since the heating element and the water level sensor are not in contact with water. Since the heating element and water do not touch it allows for thermal stability and controlled pressure. This ensures that the water is heated up in less than 5 minutes regardless of the machine's ongoing status and only heats the required amount of water each time.

Built into the system is fault management efficiency. To prevent timescale accumulation it knows in real time the quantity of water and lime scale there is in the water tank, thereby preventing pressure falls by controlling the amount of cold water entering.

The company's development saves significant energy consumption. Additionally, it increases the quality of the coffee by preventing burnt coffee, since the temperature is controlled when preparing the beverage.

The semi-external high voltage bulb is mass-producible. In the event that the machine needs a repair, it is self-replaceable and does not require a technician, reducing maintenance. If the heater element burns out, the machine will still work. The technology is especially well suited for companies who produce traditional coffee machines and would like to manufacture a line of premium machines.

The company's technology can be useful for machines in hotels, coffee shops, cafes and venue locations.

In order to expand globally, the company is looking for foreign coffee machine manufacturers in the beverage sector to partner with. They are seeking opportunities in new markets, specifically Europe (Italy) and the United States.

Summary of offer	Export/Services: Green-Tech, Agricultural Worldwide Solutions

Description of Offer

Execution of Agriculture Green-Technology Projects (Off-Grid)

We are "One Stop Shop" for the execution of green-technology projects (Off-Grid) anywhere in the world.

We provide our projects with design, logistics, power generation, water production, communications systems, smart systems, green construction, advanced agricultural practices, "Isolated Structures for Organic Plant Growing", and project's employee training services that enable them to operate and maintain the project properly.

Isolated Structure for Organic Plant Growing

The "Isolated Structure" is the most innovative and promising technology in the agriculture industry, it is a smart and technological structure designed to grow organic plants, which is automating most of the structure and crop operations, and uses the external energy according to his needs while remaining detached from the external environment, by precisely matching the plant's needs.

The structure was invented by our company in order to solve numerous global problems in agriculture, therefore:

The isolated structure provides a solution for growing plants without crop losses due to pests/diseases/pesticide spraying, which amounts between 30% - 40% of the total crop.

The Isolated Structure provides a solution for growing almost any plant anywhere in the world.

The Isolated Structure has no negative influence on the outer ecological system, because of its detachment from the outside environment.

The "Isolated Structure" is managed by a premier intelligent system, which allows full control of the structure over the Internet from anywhere in the world.

Generally, the smart system automates most of the structure and crop operations, which provides high precision of the growing method, significant employee savings and provides farmers with maximum success over years.

The main system fully controls the subsystems of the structure and automatically adjusts them according to plant needs, such as in an innovative lighting system for plants that synchronize with the sun's rays, in feeding values for irrigation water and automatic irrigation, room temperature and humidity, automatic convey of the plants according to growth stages, air inlets & outlets, and more other systems depending on the agricultural growth and project's area.

Steel Constructions Structures from Turkey

Our company is a representative of a steel construction factory from Turkey, which provides manufacturing, logistics, construction, and assembly services.

Our factory produces galvanized steel construction structures that are ready for assembly at the construction site.

We work according to a construction plan and detailed quantities, and we also provide shop drawing assembly plan of the structure.

The advantages of the method are the quality of workmanship, the speed of production and assembly, and of course the price.

The plant has 29 years of experience of providing steel constructions for the industrial, commercial, agricultural, residential and other sectors.
